From the Artistic Director.
I am anxious as always to see old friends and become acquainted with new friend during the 6th Annual IASJ Jazz Meeting in Israel. This time more than ever it will truly be an international event. This is the main rationale of the IASJ. Our goal is to encourage positive person to person communication and empathy between young artist from all over the world using jazz as the medium to accomplish this goal. This year the Rimon School of Jazz and Contemporary Music is the host. I am very excited because of the unique nature of their situation. Being the only school in the Middle East with a 10 year tradition, they are truly pioneers for several hundred students that have passed through the doors. I have personally known some of the staff over this decade and thewy do a superb job. The Rimon School will also invite several local artists to perform some of the music from that part of the world. The day after the General Assembly there will be a tour to Jerusalem. The sites are among the most impressive in the world. For thousand years is a lot of history and the vibrations are very deep.

SHALOM! David Liebman

From the Daily Board.
Prior to the upcoming 6th Annual IASJ Jazz Meeting the members of the Daily Board will contact their Regional Coordinators. The RC's that cannot come to the meeting are requested to make a small report about their region. This report will be read to the Region Coordinators present in the General Assembly. The exchange of information about what goes on in the regions is very important. Based upon this information the IASJ Future Development Plan can be made.

From the IASJ Service Bureau.
All members who have paid their membership fee should have received the IASJ Certificate of Enrolment by now. If not so, please contact the IASJ Service Bureau.
