Now that the end of 1995 is getting near every day, you will get more IASJ mail. Of course you have just received the yellow cover IASJ magazine JAZZ CHANGES.
I am sure you have enjoyed reading the magazine as much as I did. Hopefully you are making plans to contribute to one of the future issues by writing an article or a letter. One more issue of JAZZ CHANGES will be published this year. I am sure that this IASJ Newsletter and the two issues of JAZZ CHANGES will get you through the dark days. In order to receive this beautiful material in the future you are asked to fulfill your administrational and financial obligations for the IASJ. From the IASJ Service Bureau you will receive documents that will be familiar to you by now. If you have any questions, please contact Rick Heerink, the IASJ Service Bureau Coordinator. You can call, write, fax or even E-mail the IASJ. It will not be long before the IASJ will have a 'home page' on the Internet to inform you about the organization anytime and anywhere.
There are even more IASJ letters that will get to you. The next Annual IASJ Jazz Meeting, the Baltic Jazz Cruise, is arriving into the final stages of organization. The first mailings from the host school, the Rhythmic Music Conservatory in Copenhagen, Denmark, have been sent out already. The Annual IASJ Jazz Meeting 1996 is a very special one because it takes place on a boat. The schedule leaves enough free time for everybody to enjoy the ride. Getting of the boat however is of course limited to the times the boat is in a harbor. As soon as we get on land the combo's will play and after the concerts it is back to the boat again. It will be a fascinating tour with a fast changing scenery and an amazing number of cultural impressions!
Two issues of JAZZ CHANGES, this IASJ Newsletter,the IASJ on the Internet, the IASJ Baltic Jazz Cruise: the IASJ is moving on. It took the IASJ five years to settle down, to get organized,to establish a solid foundation. Now the IASJ is growing fast. This and all the next issues of the IASJ Newsletter will let you know where we stand.
